

Photo Treasure Hunt Brandon Park - Results

Monday we will review the results of the Photo Treasure Hunt of the last meeting. You can bring your images in virtually any format. Digital, slide or print. We have methods to put them all up on the screen for display.

Even if you didn't partake in the shoot you can still learn from the critique of these images. Hmmmm.....I wonder how the images of other SVS members will turn out.

Thanks again in advance to Bruce Dart for the loan of his video projector.

Brent's Babble

Do you have your film developed and photos ready from the photo treasure hunt? The August meeting was great, the weather was good, we had a good turn out, the light didn't last long but it was nice to see people walking around carrying cameras in the park rather than sitting in the museum. Did anyone get any good photos? Don't forget your photos on Monday.

Our business meeting was short because of the scavenger hunt but we did go over a few things. The winter show is set the opening is November 22 and it will be a color and black and white show as before. The show is a little earlier this year do you know what your entering? We need to raise the prize money, so please start looking for patron and advertisers it's only two months away.

Our show is set for the Coffee and Tea Room. At our August meeting we had 15 members sign up to display two photos each, we can only hang about 30 pieces. The show will open on Friday the 5th of October as part of the First Friday series and Hang till the beginning of November. From 7 to 9 there will be refreshments and live music for the opening. This should be a lot of fun and great exposure for the club.

See you Monday

Keep Shooting

PhotoPlus Expo

Fall is almost here which means the PhotoPlus Expo is just around the corner. A number of Shutterbugs have made this an annual trek to NYC to see what is the latest and greatest in imaging and photo gear. The dates for this year's expo are Oct. 31 - Nov 2. To get in for free, you must pre-register by October 15 which can be done on-line.

Wayne Palmer is going out on Saturday this year and has room for 6 passengers in his van. Anyone is welcome to go with him but be prepared for getting home a little late. He will be assisting in the last hands-on seminar of the day, Professional Digital Restoration, given by Katrin Eismann which concludes at 5:45 PM. The exhibit officially ends at 5:00 PM meaning you might have to sight see for an hour.

Dear SVS Readers and Members,

I am officially submitting my resignation as newsletter editor at the end of this election term. I am doing so with six months notice so a replacement can be found. Next March will conclude 10 years that I have held the position and it is time for someone else to take on the role.

My business continues to grow and consume more of my time. This fall, I have begun teaching Photoshop classes at Penn Tech with even more classes planned for next year. (Plug...Plug if any one is interested.)

I still plan to be active in the club. I will continue to keep the SVS web site. I also plan to continue submitting articles to the newsletter. And, I am not even opposed to sitting at the front of the room again.

My increasingly busy schedule is in part why the newsletter gets out late and in some cases not at all. I simply cannot afford to continue to drop everything one day a month to meet the deadline of getting a newsletter out.

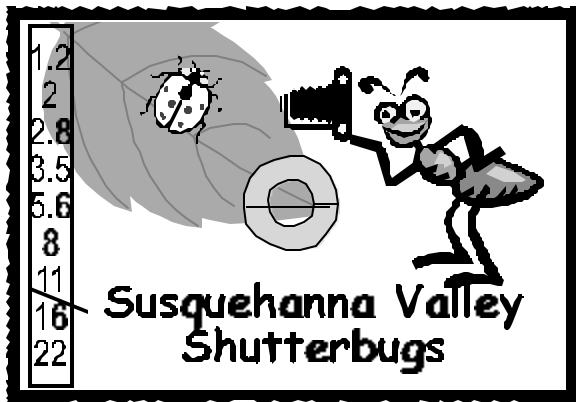

With over 40 members, almost 2/3 of them with computers, I am sure there is someone who has the ability to publish a newsletter. With this six months notice, there will be sufficient time for someone to learn the ropes. I am even willing to help train someone for this task if needed.

Wayne
